

FOR CAMPUS CORRESPONDENTS

Reporting AI on your campus

You tell theTN.ai what is happening in AI at your department. We check it, write it up, and publish it with your name.

1. Spot it

An AI event, a project, a result, a research paper or a new lab in your department.

2. Send it

On thetn.ai/students/submit, choose "Campus story". Add what happened, when, and a link that shows it.

3. We check and publish

We confirm every fact on a page we can open, write the story, and publish it with your byline.

What makes a good campus story

- Something happened, or will happen, on a date. A hackathon your department ran, a team that won, a paper accepted, a lab opened, a workshop announced.
- Someone outside your college would care. A student in another city, a company looking for talent, or a parent choosing a course.
- There is a page that shows it. Your department's website, the event page, the organiser's results page, or the paper itself. No page, no story: we cannot publish what we cannot check.

Good: "Our department's two-day hackathon on AI for farming ran on 3 and 4 Nov with 120 students from 9 colleges; results are on the department's page."

Too thin: "We had a great AI event last week."

What to send

- ✓ A clear title: what happened.
- ✓ The details in your own words: who, what, when, where, how many.
- ✓ The date it happened.
- ✓ A link to a page that shows it.

You do not need to write a finished article. theTN.ai writes every story in its own style and may shorten it, change the headline, or leave out what it cannot confirm. Your name appears as "Campus Correspondent, <your college>".

Never send

- ✗ The names, photos or details of anyone under 18.
- ✗ Anyone's phone number, email, marks, attendance or other personal details.
- ✗ Names of students who have not agreed to be named.
- ✗ Rumours, complaints about people, or anything you have not seen a page for.
- ✗ Text copied from another website or article. Tell us in your own words, and give the link.
- ✗ Rankings of colleges, or claims that one college is "the best".

Your name and your data

- Nothing is published with your name until you confirm by email that you are 18 or older and agree to a byline.
- Your phone number is used only by the editor to check a story with you. It is never published.
- You can stop at any time: email editor@thetn.ai. Published stories keep your byline unless you ask us to remove it, which we do within 48 hours.
- You can download or delete everything about you from your student page.

What you earn

- First Byline badge with your first published story, and Five Bylines at five.
- Campus Voice badge after a full semester as a correspondent.
- A Campus Correspondent certificate listing your published stories, with a QR code anyone can scan to check it.

Before you press Send

- ☐ Is there a date?
- ☐ Is there a page that shows it?
- ☐ Is everyone named 18 or older, and did they agree?
- ☐ Is it in my own words?

Questions: editor@thetn.ai. theTN.ai is independent and not affiliated with the Government of Tamil Nadu. Run for now by StudAI Edutech Private Limited (CIN U85500TN2024PTC168744), Chennai.